Physical Attributes: A Symphony of Beauty

Comet Goldfish are renowned for their elongated, slender bodies that taper gradually towards the tail. Their scales shimmer with an iridescent glow, reflecting a kaleidoscope of colors that range from vibrant oranges and reds to metallic golds and silvers. The most striking feature of the Comet Goldfish, however, is its flowing tail fin, which can reach lengths of up to 12 inches or more. This ethereal appendage is deeply forked, creating a graceful and dynamic movement as the fish swims.

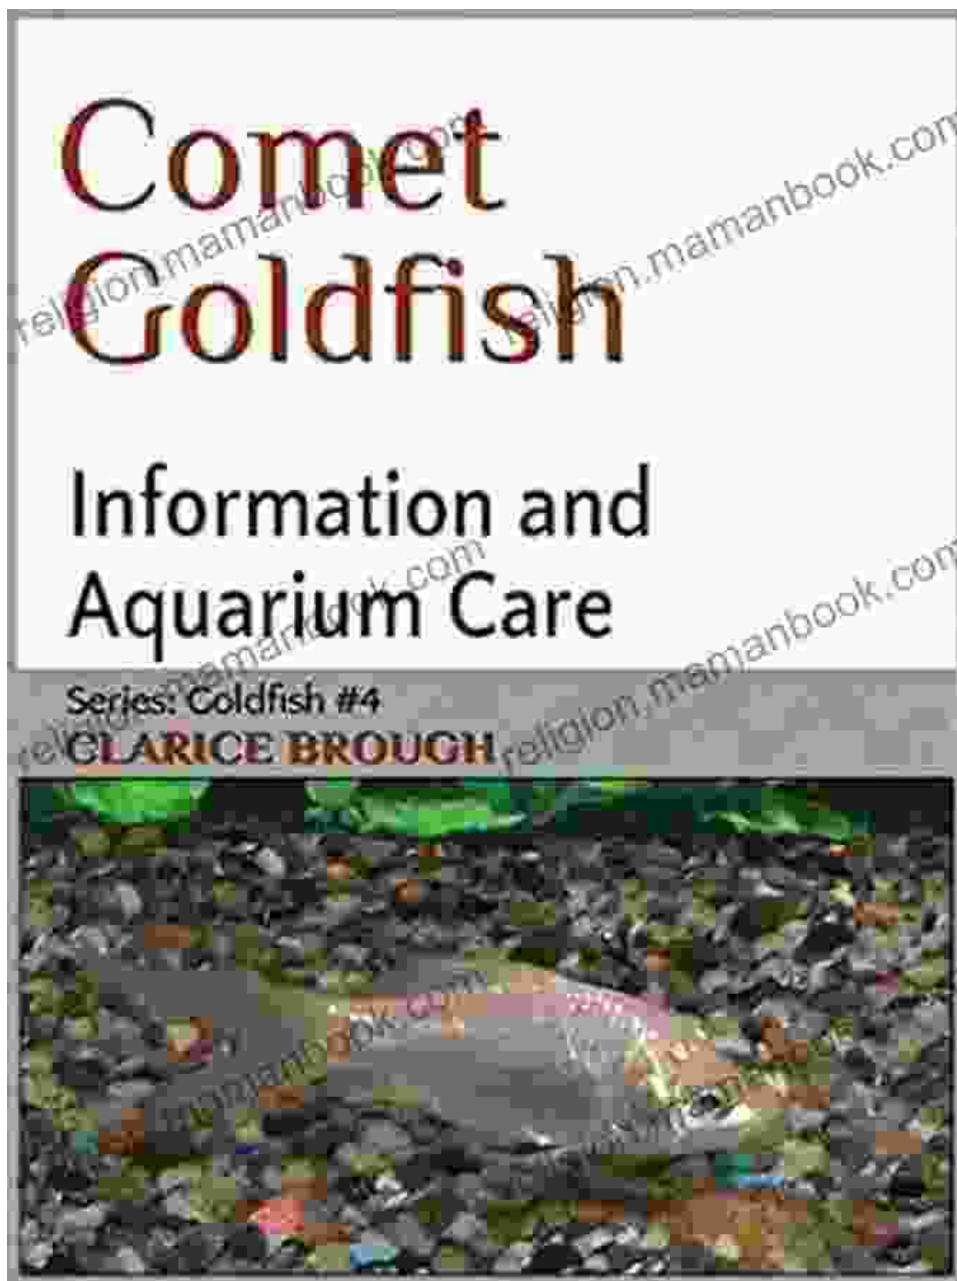

Ideal Care Requirements: Nurturing the Comet's Brilliance

To ensure the well-being and longevity of your Comet Goldfish, it is essential to provide them with an optimal living environment. These fish prefer spacious aquariums with a capacity of at least 20 gallons, offering ample room for their graceful swimming patterns. The water temperature should be maintained between 60 and 75 degrees Fahrenheit, and a pH level between 6.5 and 8.0 is ideal. Additionally, Comet Goldfish require a diet rich in nutrients and variety, including high-quality pellets, frozen bloodworms, and live plants.

A Legacy of Passion: Clarice Brough, the Master Breeder

Clarice Brough, a renowned goldfish breeder from the United Kingdom, played a pivotal role in shaping the modern Comet Goldfish. Her tireless efforts and unwavering dedication to the hobby led to the development of the Comet's distinctive characteristics, including its elongated body and flowing tail fin. Brough's contributions to the aquarium world are immeasurable, and her legacy continues to inspire fishkeepers around the globe.

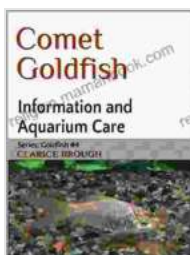

Clarice Brough's passion for goldfish breeding revolutionized the hobby.

A Journey Through History: The Comet's Enduring Charm

The origins of the Comet Goldfish can be traced back to the early days of goldfish breeding in China, where they were first developed from the Common Carp. Over the centuries, the Comet Goldfish was introduced to Japan and Europe, where it underwent further refinement and selective breeding. Clarice Brough's contributions in the 20th century solidified the Comet's status as one of the most popular and beloved goldfish varieties in the world.

: A Timeless Icon in the Aquarium World

The Comet Goldfish, with its graceful form and captivating tail fin, is a testament to the art and science of selective breeding. Clarice Brough's unwavering dedication and passion for the hobby have left an indelible mark on the aquarium world, ensuring that the Comet Goldfish remains a prized possession for fish enthusiasts of all levels. Whether you are a seasoned aquarist or a novice just starting your journey, the Comet Goldfish is a timeless icon that will bring joy and fascination to your aquarium.
